

ADDENDA A to T-1114
REPLACEMENT CORDS
FOR STROMBERG-CARLSON
TELEPHONES MANUFACTURED
FROM 1950 to 1956

For information on Stromberg-Carlson telephones manufactured after 1965, request manual for the particular telephone from the Stromberg-Carlson branch office serving you.

A • 2 ADDENDA REPLACEMENT CORDS

The line cord for each telephone listed in T-1114 is included in the parts list for each telephone. The handset cord for each handset is included in the parts list for each handset, as are the transmitter and receiver. This addenda provides a convenient composite listing of all the handset cords and line cords, used on Stromberg-Carlson telephones manufactured from 1950 to 1965. Also listed are the stock numbers for the S-C 500 type handset cords and package assembly which enable the S-C 500 handset cords to be used on the 31 and 34 type handsets. When ordering replacement cords, the use of this listing will provide correct stock numbers, which will ensure shipment of the correct cord.

Use of 500 Type Telephone Handset Cords for 1500, 1600, and 1700 Series Telephones.

The handset cord used with the G3 handset on 500 type telephones, can also be used with the 31, 31A, 34, 34A, and 34B handsets used on the 1500, 1600 and 1700 telephones. All necessary material and instructions for use of this cord are provided in package assembly 206288-301 available from Stromberg-Carlson.

Original handset cords for the various series telephones are still available. However, this package assembly permits operating companies to reduce inventory of replacement handset cords by standardizing on the 500 type handset cord for all 500, 1600, and 1700 series telephones.
